Fall 2017 – Syllabus for Intermediate Drawing/Intro to Watercolor

Malaika Latty – mlatty@ryman.org

The emphasis for this class is on attendance, effort, participation, and willingness to experiment. The aim is to find joy in the work you make. This class will teach you how to better understand color relationships and color mixing with an emphasis on the human figure. We will approach drawing the human figure with empathy for the model, mastering both skill and expression.

Week 1 (Aug 19): Watercolor still life with strong composition and color harmony.

- Demonstration on two color wheels (primary palette and dead palette)
- Demonstration on painting with watercolors (wet into wet, dry brush, indirect mixing)
- Review value, color as value, and contrasting color
- Look at Vincent Van Gogh's relationship to Jean Francois Millet and discuss what it is to "study" art.
- Start with four compositions on newsprint from observation. Divide 18"x24" sheets into four quarters, then sketch four composition studies. Choose most successful composition for completing watercolor emphasizing range of value.
- * Due Next class: Choose a painting by an artist who interests you. For homework paint a watercolor from a painting by this artist. Think about Van Gogh's drawings of Millet's paintings. I provided a list of example artists to research as a starting point. Bring in your painting and the original piece (magazine, book, image) you worked from.

Week 2 (Aug 26): Complete watercolor still life emphasizing contrast in color / value.

Critique homework: watercolor after artist of choice.

- Due Next class: Paint a watercolor still life of 'tools' emphasizing value range and contrast. Search for an interesting composition, considering the scale of the tools and how they relate to your hand. Look at Richard Diebenkorn's still life drawings of scissors. You MUST mix all greys. DO NOT use black.

NO CLASS SEPT 2 for LABOR DAY WEEKEND

Week 3 (Sept 9): Pastel Portraits of each other. We will use pastels, grey Canson paper and drawing pad.

Critique homework: watercolor still life of 'tools'

- Students will pair up to model for a 2-week color portrait incorporating the space around the head.
- We review head proportions. (Look at skulls and planar head)
- Demonstration on color mixing, complementary colors. See how to make flesh tones mixing the primary colors or other triads.
- Due Next Class: Paint a simple and subtly colored self-portrait (or portrait of someone close to you) with mixed media (soft pastels, watercolor, and charcoal pencils) on watercolor paper. Must be from life, not from photos, include environment

Week 4 (Sept 16): Finish pastel portraits on grey Canson. Continue drawing from observation creating a rhythm and strong composition.

Critique: Portrait

Due Next Class: Complete/ Improve portrait using the techniques learned in class

Week 5 (Sept 23): Assembly during class time.

Demo on interior space and sighting lines, how to see and draw perspective.

Draw the classroom interior in watercolor.

Critique: Completed homework portraits

Due Next class: Draw your room or a favorite place from observation clearly understanding the scale of the space and the viewer's vantage point. Create a sense of perspective either interior or landscape. Media is your choice. Use color to create depth. Look at Paul Cezanne watercolor landscapes.

Week 6 (Sept 30): Demo on Hands & Feet

Critique: favorite place drawings

Draw your own hands and feet. Focus on bones and structural planes.

Due Oct 15th: drawings incorporating hands and feet (material of choice). Compose a drawing showing your hands and feet in a gesture. (Drawing must show at least one shoe off, practice drawings fingers and toes).

*Due Nov 4th: Draw a full-length self-portrait in mixed media. You may use paint or any other material of choice. You can use larger paper, canvas, etc. or attach several sheets of canson together. Bring sketches next week. Practice proportions. This will be a four-week assignment.

Week 7 (Oct 8): Make Your Mark in the Park Sunday. Class this week will be the field trip on Sunday, no Saturday class Oct 7th.

Week 8 (Oct 14): Costume male model with soft pastels and watercolor. (2 week pose)

-Work on life-size self-portrait. Bring it to class to show progress next week.

Critique: hands and feet drawing

-Demo in watercolor showing wet into wet, dry brush, washes and glazes.

-Start with lightest colors, using the white of paper as white highlights. The rhythm of watercolor sometimes demands for two paintings at a time.

-We look at and discuss Paul Cezanne's watercolors and trapped light.

Due Next Class: Show me the first stage of your full-length self-portrait.

Week 9 (Oct 21): Costumed male model. Pastel on Canson paper.

No crit: Review in-progress life-size self-portraits.

-Look at the portraits by Alice Neel, Rembrandt and Velasquez. What are the artists telling us about the people they paint?

Homework: Complete the Life-Size self-portrait. Incorporate the background. This will be a complete finished piece, figure/ground relationship is important.

Week 10 (Oct 28): Figure Drawing with female model introducing mixed media, watercolor washes with pastel. (wet + dry)

-Review proportion of the body including the head and sighting lines.

Critique of homework: LAST REVIEW before finals are due, Life-Size self-portraits.

Week 11 (Nov 4): Watercolor and/or pastel: Female Figure Long pose. Set up a figure in an environment to make the interior space and scale clear.

Critique: Full-length mixed-media self-portrait.

Due Next Class: *Next week bring ALL COMPLETE classwork and homework for final portfolio reviews.

Week 12 (Nov 11): Watercolor and/or pastel: Final Day, Female Figure Long pose. Sharing ideas and seeing the process of beginning sketching transform into a realized final product. Students will present to me for informal critiques and one on one final review. All students finish up projects and finish long pose figure thinking about texture and finding the approach and tool to translate touch into a visual experience.

Final individual reviews.
